Annual Focus in Responsive mode: Welfare of managed animals (including livestock and companion animals)

Application deadline: 9 January 2013

Summary

We wish to encourage more high quality research under our welfare of managed animals strategic priority (see related links). The research community applying in this area is comparitively small, thus the number of applications is small. Committee membership reflects this, therefore we wish to encourage applications to be submitted annually to our responsive mode deadline on 9 January 2013.

Scope

Applications must be within the remit of BBSRC, see 'Our portfolio' in related links.

For information on areas covered by our welfare priority see 'Priority: Welfare of managed animals' in related links.

For enquires about our welfare of managed animals priority contact Merewyn Loder (contact details below).

Peer review

Whilst applications under this priority can be submitted to any of the responsive mode rounds (see application deadlines in related links), there may be fewer experts in animal welfare to assess the applications and to comment on strategic relevance of the proposals. Applications will be assessed in May 2013, in competition with other proposals submitted to the round.

For peer review enquires contact Research Committee A (details below).

How to apply

Applications should be submitted through the Joint Electronic Submission System (Je-S) - see external links.
